Hi Martin,

Thank you for your email.

Unfortunately we have already reallocated the grant for 2022 to another beneficiary. However as indicated previously we will be able to revisit your application for the 2023 year should you wish to reapply early next year.

Kind regards

Peter J. Myers

Hi Peter (and Nicole),

One of our Board Members (Dorina Bowes) was in Pretoria today at the SARS Tax Exemption unit, and we have finally succeeded in obtaining the much needed certificate. Please see the attached file. We will send a cleaner copy shortly. We had appealed on Monday to SARS management for the fast-tracking of our approval with the argument that we had relied on this gift to cover expenditures in 2022 and SARS management agreed to finish review and approval our application this afternoon.

Nicole had previously confirmed that we had met the BBBEE requirements, so the SARS approval was the only outstanding issue. I am writing just to explore whether it might still be possible to allocate this gift to us, in the event that it had not already been reallocated. We certainly understand the constraints on your side, and appreciate the need for your company to get the necessary credits for this year with certainty. We will understand if it is now too late.

Please let us know whether there is any chance to recover the allocation for 2022 or whether this gift had already been definitely reallocated.

Many thanks for your consideration.

Best wishes,

Martin
